A RISE IN MUTTON.

Came a Drop. In the "good old days" at the Haymarket theater there was being played Rev. E. T. Fairbanks, Rev. H. Faira real boiled leg of mutton every Fairbanks Board for the Relief of night. This, according to the law of "property." or, rather, the "property man's" law, went after the performance almost untouched to the official named. But the "flymen" perched up aloft did not like this, for they, too, boiled leg of mutton would have been

So they hit upon a plan, and one night William Farren, who had the carving of the joint, was asked to fix a hook that would be let down from the flies into the mutton and "leave ready for a practical joke, consented and as the scene was coming to a termination fastened the book into the leg of mutton. As scene shifters were preparing to "close in" and the property man stood in the wings ready to seize on his perquisite the leg of mutton was seen slowly to ascend.

The audience laughed. Henry Compton, who was watching the maneuver, Brooks of St. Johnsbury and George laughed, too, and the employees all L. The audience now roared, the employees roared, both Farren and ill treated supper. - London Family Herald.

Byron's Three Great Men of Europe. Lord Byron said that Europe saw three great men in the early part of the nineteenth century. But no one Members of the C. H. M. St. Valentine. The 14th of February is a day sacred to St. Valentine. It was a very odd notion, alluded to by Shakespeare, that on this day birds begin to couple. Hence, perhaps, arose the custom of sending on this day letters containing professions of love and affection.-Noah Webster.

It is said that Thomas Hooker thought his duty ill performed if his mon did not consume three hours. Once it is related that the famous divine did deliver a really short sermon-preaching exactly fifteen minutes. He sat down, but after a brief rest was up and at it again for two hours more. Every one of Cranmer's sermons was a small volume in itself. and Bunyan, Calvin, Baxter and Knox are all said to have been only a little more merciful to their hearers.

In striking contrast to these long winded discourses may be mentioned some startlingly brief sermons of late years. Perhaps the shortest of all was that delivered by a clergyman at Ocean Grove, N. J., who, after announcing his text, impressively surveyed his congregation and then said: "Don't worry; it's wicked." He then sat down. It would be difficult to exceed this brevity and effectiveness, but a north of England vicar in the last century closely approximated it. He gave out the text, "God so loved the world." etc., to which he added this observa-

"My friends, did I speak an hour i couldn't make that message any plainer. I'll just leave it with you."

Another example of a brief but traordinarily effective sermon was furnished by an aged and feeble clergyman in Oblo. He had been requested to deliver a charity address on behalf of orphan children, but his strength was unequal to the task. It was therefore an inspiration indeed that moved him to stretch forth one feeble arm in the direction of the little unfortunates sitting near the pulpit and to exclaim with no little pathos, "Whence shall we find bread that these may

A certain M. On the eventful night when the house divided the tellers at the division lobby door saw the M. P. in question, and his vote was recorded. The day afterward it was discovered that the number of votes recorded by the division clerks was one short of the number given by the tellers. It was afterward found that at the time the division was taken the M. P. had breathed his last.-London Mail.
